Dulles Says Soviet Will Not Talk With West For Fear They Lose Clasp on Reds

CLEVELAND (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today Russian rulers have refused to talk with the West about European problems because of fear for their control over peoples behind the Iron Curtain.

"The Soviet rulers have retreated into a diplomatic defensive," the secretary declared. "The free world now has the diplomatic and moral initiative."

Dulles, in a speech prepared for the annual convention of the CIO, said he hoped the free nations would "sustain that initiative by being ready to talk about any concrete point of difference—whether it be in Europe or in Asia, or whether it be in relation to armament."

But he cautioned that a desire to confer with the Russians "should not lead us to confer where the only probable result would be an apparent moral approval of the Kremlin's rule over the peoples of 15 once-independent nations."

Dulles said it is his belief that the examples of progress and accomplishment in the free world would ultimately cause the collapse of Soviet control over what he called "the captive world front." He said it is neither necessary nor desirable "that we should try to foment violent revolution."

It was in this connection that Dulles claimed a clear victory for the United States, Britain and France in their diplomatic change with Russia beginning last July, over their proposal of a Big Four foreign ministers meeting to unify Germany and establish Austria's independence. In a note Nov. 3 the Russians in effect rejected the specific proposal, insisting that first there must be agreement to meet with the Chinese Communists on world problems, and that the Western nations must abandon their joint defense arrangements.

Dulles said that the real truth is "that the Soviet rulers are gravely preoccupied with the mood of the captive workers" in Eastern Europe. Alluding to anti-Soviet rioting, he said:

"The events of last June, in Eastern Germany and East Berlin, show that the workers were being exploited to the breaking point."

"The fact that the Soviet rulers now refuse to meet to discuss European problems is not a sign of strength, but of fear."

"They dare not admit of a prospect of greater liberties anywhere behind the Iron Curtain, lest restiveness increase everywhere behind that curtain. So, they slammed the door on a European conference and started diversionary talks about our being buddies with aggressor China."

Dulles linked American concern with Soviet imperialism today with the threat he said Czar Alexander posed to the world in the first half of the previous century—a threat which led the United States to declare the Monroe Doctrine against extension of foreign control in the Western Hemisphere.

"If our example can illumine again the great advantages of a free society," he said, "then Soviet communism will lose its deceptive appeal. Furthermore, it will lose its grip upon the enslaved whom it now holds. The tide of despotism will recede during the second half of this century as it receded during the first half of the preceding century."

He said it was up to the United States to produce not only military power but also progress in welfare and in justice which "the despots cannot match."

A second front, he said, is that of the colonial and dependent areas of the world. He said the essential problem there is to promote the independence of local peoples in such a way as to prevent them from being taken over by the Communists.

Secretary of Labor James Mitchell was scheduled to address the convention today along with Dulles.

Brought up for debate was a proposed resolution critical of some phases of the administration's handling of foreign affairs. It declared: A clarification of labor's role (in foreign policy) is long overdue."

The measure called for a more active part by labor in the Foreign Operations Administration.

Time For a Change

It's time for a change, and we're doing it, says the weatherman. Says we, we're overdue. He has the audacity to talk about rain, showers, thunder.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 44; 71 at 1 p. m. and 72 at 2 p. m.

One year ago today here high 60, low 42. Two years ago high 37, low 16.

Cloudy and windy tonight and Thursday with showers. Thursday, tonight near 50 and high Thursday near 60.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks: 45.8; no change.

Ike Shunts White Case Aside; Says He Doubts Budget Balancing

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, shunting aside the Harry Dexter White case at his news conference, said today he does not believe the federal budget can be balanced in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

He also said the administration probably won't know until next month whether it will have to ask Congress to increase the national debt ceiling of 275 billion dollars.

Eisenhower told the conference he said his last word, for the present, at least, on the biggest issue in Washington, the controversy over former President Truman's letting the appointment of White to a high monetary post go through in 1946 in the face of an FBI report that White was suspected of being a Communist spy.

He voiced the hope that the Communist-in-government issue will be a matter of history by the time the 1954 congressional elections come around.

The President made the statement in commenting on a remark by Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, that his party plans to make the issue one of the main points of the congressional campaign.

He gave two reasons for his belief a balanced budget can be achieved in the fiscal year beginning next July:

One, he said, was the need of tax adjustments, to remove injustices. He indicated this would necessitate some loss in revenue.

He gave expenses of the farm program as the other reason. Eisenhower said these are unusually high because of the drought and related problems.

Eisenhower noted that he will meet with the Republican congressional leaders Dec. 17, 18 and 19 to discuss the administration's legislative program for the session of Congress starting in January. The President said the series of conferences would sort of firm up the program now being drafted by the executive branch.

He said that in addition to his meetings with GOP congressional leaders he will make every effort to get full agreement from the Democrats on legislation, particularly in the field of foreign affairs.

On other matters, the President:

1. Announced a program to make possible the continued flow of feed into drought disaster areas at reduced prices until Congress convenes. Eisenhower said drought conditions in many parts of the country have continued to increase in severity. He said he has directed that feed furnished by the government's Commodity Credit Corporation "shall be without reimbursement to the corporation from presently authorized funds."

2. Said he plans to spend Thanksgiving Day in Augusta, Ga. with his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, the major's wife and their three children.

3. Declared that at the forthcoming Bermuda conference, representatives of the United States, Great Britain and France have a lot of common problems to discuss. He mentioned the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Korean situation and Asia in general. The President said that if he, Britain's Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel can eliminate some of the causes of friction in various places in the world, that will be all to the good.

4. Promised that the government would take all necessary measures to prevent a business recession or depression if any sign of such a condition appears. The President informed regarding the situation by Arthur Burns, the chairman of his Economic Advisory Council.

5. Said he still is hard at work on a statement to the American people regarding national security, including continental defense. The important thing on that, Eisenhower said, is the timing. It is necessary to make sure no unnecessary alarm or hysteria is caused, he added. The President did not specifically mention the nation's atomic program in this connection, but reports are that the statement being prepared will deal also with that matter.

6. Indicated he may have discussed with Pakistan officials the possibility of U. S. military aid in return for bases in Pakistan. He said that in such matters it is necessary to proceed most cautiously lest it cause alarm or unrest in neighboring countries, such as India.

Alec Templeton, Here Thursday Night, Has a Musical Canary

Alec Templeton, who will appear here Thursday night in the first of the Community Concert series, probably has the only canary in the world who likes the classics. So great is the appreciation that the bird, named Kippie, enjoys whistling Schubert.

Among his other pets, Templeton also has two Persian cats, Louis Armstrong and Sharkey Banana. So far they haven't been known to whistle Schubert.

Templeton, an American citizen since 1940, lives with his wife, the former Julie Barr, in Greenwich, Conn. There they enjoy the same hobbies—collecting records, music boxes, chiming clocks, working in the garden, fishing, boating and caring for their pets.

The blind pianist has an equally serious side. Besides his well-known popular compositions, Templeton is the composer of two string quartets, a song cycle, numerous compositions for piano and other instruments with or without piano obligato, such as "Siciliana" for oboe and piano and a concerto for piano and small orchestra.

St. Louis Gets Started Anew A 'Lot of Hay,' Seeking Money Awaits US Aid

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Spurred by disclosures at the Greenlease kidnapping trial, top St. Louis police authorities are renewing their inquiry into the mysterious disappearance of a $303,720 in ransom money.

New questions were raised by the confession of kidnapper Carl Austin Hall, given to FBI agents and made public for the first time yesterday in the trial at Kansas City.

Hall said he had $592,000 of the $600,000 ransom in the room at the Town House apartment-hotel where he was arrested here Oct. 6. He had just completed an inventory of the money at the time, Hall said.

The confessed killer said also he was positive the two suitcases and a brief case containing the ransom were not taken with him to the Newstead Avenue district police station immediately after his arrest.

These, and other portions of his confession, were in direct conflict with previous statements by resigned police Lt. Louis Shoulters, who made the arrest.

Reading of the confession in open court provided ranking police officials here with details of Hall's confession for the first time, they disclosed. The confession was discussed at a meeting last night of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners.

Police Chief Jermiah O'Connell wired federal officials at Kansas City with a request for a complete transcript of Hall's statement. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. previously had refused a request for a transcript, O'Connell said.

I. A. Long, president of the police board, said "we will follow up the investigation resulting from Hall's statement."

Shoulters, who resigned his police post saying his reputation and usefulness as an officer had been destroyed by the police inquiry here, refused to discuss the statements made by Hall in the confession.

After portions of the confession were read to Shoulters by the Associated Press, he said "I'm sorry but I have absolutely nothing to say about this."

Later Shoulters said: "I am still under the oath of secrecy. I took when I testified before the federal grand jury in Kansas City. I don't want to get into difficulty with the grand jury."

"I sure hope they find the money. Maybe some FBI agent or some dumb cop will stumble onto the money, just as I stumbled into the case. When it is all over I may have plenty to say."

Snyder Promoted Glasser

That Is Testimony Today, Pointing Out Glasser Was Linked With White as Spy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators introduced evidence today that former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder promoted Harold Glasser in 1946 after FBI reports had linked Glasser with Harry Dexter White in Soviet espionage.

Documents to this effect were put into the record of the Senate internal security subcommittee which yesterday heard FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testify that he opposed—but bowed to—former President Truman's decision to keep White in the government.

Hoover declared too that moving White from assistant secretary of the Treasury to U. S. director of the international monetary fund, as done by Truman, hampered the FBI in its investigation of White.

Truman, who had declared he took this action to avoid tipping off the investigation of a suspected Russian spy ring, had no comment on Hoover's testimony beyond saying: "I'm sure he told the truth."

And President Eisenhower declined at a news conference to make further comment on this specific case. He said he had spoken his last word, for the time being at least, on the White case.

Eisenhower said, however, that he hopes his administration's clean up in Washington will eliminate the Communist-in-government issue from next year's congressional election campaign.

He said as he has before that Congress has a right to investigate as it sees fit.

This was in response to a question as to whether he had meant congressional committees should not continue their investigations along that line.

In a brief public session, the Senate internal security subcommittee cited on Aug. 22, 1946, letter Snyder wrote notifying Glasser that he was being appointed director of the Treasury Department's monetary research division at a salary of $10,000 a year.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), the subcommittee chairman, said this was one of a number of "very serious letters" signed by Snyder.

Snyder had been invited to be present for today's hearing but said word he could not arrange to come at this time.

Subcommittee counsel Robert Morris pointed out that Glasser's appointment as director of the monetary research division occurred after two summaries of FBI reports on Soviet espionage had been sent to the Treasury Department.

In a telegram to Jenner, Snyder said "I want you to point out that the record clearly shows that with in approximately 18 months after I became head of the Treasury Department and its 116,000 employees, to the best of my knowledge, all suspected subversives were separated from the department and none have been found, so I am advised in the department, since I left."

Snyder became secretary of the Treasury in June, 1946.

Snyder was a witness before the Senate investigating unit last April 14. He refused to testify on the grounds of possible self-incrimination, to say whether he was a Communist or whether he had engaged in espionage activities while working for the government.

Snyder's letter of Aug. 22, 1946 first was placed in the subcommittee's record when Glasser testified last April.

In retestifying today, Morris stressed that Hoover had testified yesterday that two FBI summaries on Soviet espionage had been sent to the Treasury prior to Glasser's appointment.

Atty. Gen. Brownell also told the Senate probers yesterday that an FBI report described Glasser "as an active member of the espionage ring." He also referred to Glasser as a "close subordinate and associate of White."

Also reintroduced by Morris were letters first put in the subcommittee record last April about Glasser's resignation from the Treasury Department, effective Dec. 31, 1947.

Driver Is Convicted Of Manslaughter After His Car Killed Boy

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A circuit court jury in St. Louis County yesterday convicted Paul R. Garloch of manslaughter in the traffic death of a 15-year-old boy.

The jury set Garloch's punishment at three months in jail and a $100 fine.

Garloch was driver of an automobile which struck a bicycle on which Raymond and Arnold Biest, brothers, were riding. Arnold died in St. Louis County Hospital. The collision occurred May 31, 1951.

SAFB Open House Sunday For Public

Will Be Last Time Before Security Closes the Gates

Sedalia Air Force Base will throw open its gates to the public Sunday, Nov. 22, from 1 to 5 p. m., for the last time before aircraft begin to arrive and strict security restrictions go into effect.

"This will be the last opportunity the public will have to see the immense construction program which is underway here," stated Maj. Patrick J. Pomphrey, Information Services Officer.

"Most of the 22-million-dollar expansion is nearly complete," he said, "and soon the streamlined Boeing B-47s will be arriving."

The public will be allowed to take a thorough look at the 3,400-acre Air Force installation. Two of the new buildings will be open for inspection. One of the ultra-modern airman dormitories, which will soon be occupied, will be open as will one of the new dining halls. Families and friends of Air Force personnel will be particularly interested in seeing the conditions under which airmen live and work.

Although there will be no aircraft displays Sunday at the Knob Noster base, a great deal can be learned and enjoyed in visiting the installation. Sedalia is destined to play a vital part in the nation's defense should the emergency occur. From its new 10,000-foot runways the six-jet B-47 will soon be striking distant targets on simulated bombing runs.

Sedalia Air Force Base is located approximately one and one-quarter miles south of Knob Noster. Personnel will be on hand at the main gate and at points throughout the base to direct visitors.

FBI's Hoover Says He Opposed Keeping White In Government

Bowed to Former President Truman, He Tells Probers; Move Hampered His Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's dramatic disclosure that he opposed—but bowed to—former President Truman's decision to keep Harry Dexter White in government today fanned new political controversy in the spectacular case.

In what for him was precedent-breaking testimony, Hoover told the Senate internal security subcommittee at a crowded, televised hearing yesterday that he advised against retaining White, who had been named in an FBI report as a spy suspect.

The ruddy-faced FBI director said firmly he had never committed his agency to any such arrangement, which he said would have been "inconceivable" for it and "not within my purview." He said FBI efforts to keep an eye on White were hampered after Truman let White's appointment as U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund go through Feb. 26, 1946.

"At no time was the FBI a party to an agreement to promote Harry Dexter White and at no time did the FBI give its approval to such an arrangement," Hoover declared.

But he confirmed that Truman, as the former President had said, permitted White to transfer from the Treasury to the monetary fund post with the idea of continuing surveillance of him. Truman had not contended the FBI had approved this course.

Hoover also said two Truman Cabinet members involved did not favor keeping White in government service. The Senate inquiry continued today.

Atty. Gen. Brownell, who preceded Hoover as a witness yesterday, said any "reasonable man" would have to conclude that Truman knew White was a spy when he appointed him.

But the attorney general conceded, under sharp questioning by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), that it was a matter of "judgment." He said he was not impugning Truman's loyalty as the former President had claimed in asserting that Brownell "lied to the American people."

Brownell said, rather, that Truman was guilty of "blindness" and "laxity" toward Communists in government. It was Brownell who first made the accusations against Truman in a speech Nov. 6.

In Kansas City, Mo., Truman shrugged this off with the comment, "Why waste words?"

Truman said he had watched Brownell's testimony on TV but not Hoover's. He added the FBI director: "I'm sure he told the truth."

Miss Fanny White, 70, a sister of Harry Dexter White, said in Boston Brownell's charges are "false, all false." She said her brother, who died in 1948 after swearing he was not a spy, "loved this country," and "had no respect for Russia."

Although Truman seemed disposed to stand on his radio-televised statements of Monday night, there was discussion among Democratic members of the Senate committee about asking him to volunteer a reply to the statements of Brownell and Hoover.

Chairman Jenner (R-Ind.), noting these suggestions, had the blunt comment: "I'm not interested."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader, jumped into the controversy with a statement that Truman was "lax in his official duties and showed great disrespect to the Senate" in not permitting it to know of the FBI report about White before it confirmed the latter's appointment.

Knowland said that as a witness, Brownell was "factual and devastating in showing the carelessness with which the Truman administration proceeded in dealing with security problems."

Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC), an internal security subcommittee member, said he didn't think anything new had been brought out by the day's testimony.

Rep. Moulder (D-Mo.), a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, asserted that Brownell before the Senate committee "was permitted to make another political speech without being subjected to cross-examination."

Hoover, greeted with applause as he took the stand, unfolded a carefully worded story of backstage maneuvering in the Truman TITLED SUBJECT—Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of the wonder drug, penicillin, sits for a portrait in stone by the Bulgarian sculptor, Assen Peikov, in Rome.

Cabinet during February 1946. For him it was unusual testimony about an individual case. He previously has limited himself to discussion of legislation and funds to operate his department.

Testifying in a firm voice, he said that on Nov. 7, 1945, Elizabeth Bentley had detailed to the FBI her activities as an espionage ring courier and that a letter, dated the following day, was sent to Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, then Truman's military aide, listing White's name among others as possible members of an espionage ring. He said this was followed Nov. 27 by a 71-page memorandum on Soviet espionage activities, delivered to Vaughan.

Hoover said that when he learned White's nomination to the monetary fund post had been submitted to the Senate Jan. 23, 1946, he sent Vaughan on Feb. 4 a 28-page report on White. He said that in the period from Nov. 8, 1945, to July 24, 1946, seven communications were sent to the White House mentioning White's name.

Truman has confirmed that on Feb. 6, the day the Senate approved White, an FBI report was called to his attention by South Carolina's Gov. James F. Byrnes, then secretary of state.

Hoover said that on Feb. 21 Atty. Gen. Tom C. Clark, now a Supreme Court justice, discussed the White appointment with him.

"I told the attorney general I felt it was unwise for White to serve," Hoover said.

Hoover met at lunch the next day with Clark and the late Fred M. Vinson, then secretary of the Treasury. Hoover said that "Judge Vinson did not want Mr. White to serve as a U.S. delegate to the International Monetary Fund and, in fact, he did not want him to continue as assistant secretary of the Treasury."

But he said Vinson voiced belief Truman could be forced to sign White's commission. Hoover said he advised Vinson and Clark that the evidence was such that it could not be disclosed at that time because it came from confidential sources.

Hoover quoted Clark as telling him on Feb. 26, the day Truman signed White's commission, that "he felt that White would go into the job and then would be surrounded with persons who were especially selected and were not security risks."

"He further stated that the President was interested in continuing the surveillance," Hoover said. "I stated if that was the desire, we would continue the investigation."

Hoover said if there was any agreement to move White to the monetary fund "and surround him with persons who were not security risks, then the agreement would have been broken very early."

The FBI director said Virginia Frank Coe, a close associate of White, who became secretary of the international fund in June 1946, was dismissed Dec. 3, 1952, when he invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about his relationship with White.

Brownell bore down hard on this point in his testimony. He said the Truman administration failed to take even "minimum precautions" toward keeping secret documents out of the hands of White and other suspected persons.

"The record fails to show that anything was done which interfered with the continued function of the espionage ring of which White was a part," Brownell said.

Hoover said in response to questions by Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) that his agents were "certainly hampered" in keeping tabs on White in his new job because they couldn't invade the international precincts of the fund's headquarters.

Referring to evidence against White, Hoover said that in 1946 he "opposed the production in court, or presentation to a grand jury, of some of this material because of its highly confidential sources."

Brownell said some of the evidence was acquired by wiretaps and thus could not be used in court. He urged a change in the laws to permit wiretapping in some espionage cases.

White's case was eventually presented to a grand jury in 1948 but the jury did not indict him. He died later that year.

Brownell said some allegedly incriminating evidence against White, papers identified as written in White's own handwriting, did not come to light until after White died.

Brownell disputed Truman's statement that the monetary fund job was not especially sensitive. The attorney general said White could cast 33 per cent of the votes of the entire organization.

Power Co-op Is Organized In Southwest

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Southwest Power Co-operative, representing rural electric co-operatives from four states, was organized here yesterday under an ambitious program of integrating public and private power facilities in six states.

One objective of the association is the purchase of government-owned transmission lines and generating facilities if the government ever actually does "get out of the power business," as some spokesmen for the present national administration have demanded.

Officers said, however, that first aim is "an adequate supply of power at reasonable rates" for farmers in the affected area.

They said organization of SPC was prompted by restrictions which Congress has placed on the federal Southwestern Power Administration.

Truett Bailey of Cleburne, Tex., who was elected SPC president, said the association hopes to integrate hydroelectric and steam power in that same way as "now achieved by the commercial power companies" though the Southwest Power Pool, except that it will be for benefit of the farmer-owned co-op power system.

The private companies' Southwest Power Pool integrates facilities in Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi and Missouri.

Bailey and other officers added that they hoped to execute power interchange agreements—similar to a number which already exist—with private companies. They said no effort would be made to purchase the private companies or take over their direction.

Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas co-operatives were represented at the organization meeting. Missouri and Louisiana co-operatives are expected to join later.

A charter was to be filed today at Oklahoma City.

The incorporation would permit SPC to "finance the purchase of existing federal lines and facilities; to construct facilities for generating and delivering power where needed; to purchase blocks of power from federal, municipal and private sources and to arrange to deliver power to rural co-operatives."

R. G. Gates of Berryville, Ark., was elected SPC vice president. Doyle Pope of Norman, Okla., was elected secretary-treasurer.

Royalty Not Offended Over Entertainment

BELEN, N. M. (AP)—Los Angeles' perturbed officials can relax—the king and queen of Greece took no offense at entertainment presented them in the Coast city.

As a matter of fact, petite Queen Frederika said during a short stop here yesterday on the royal couple's eastbound trip that she thought "it was lovely."

And King Paul answered when asked if he thought the performance was risqué:

"Not at all, not at all."

It all began at a banquet given last Saturday in Los Angeles. Songstress Eartha Kitt and actor Dick Powell drew the belated ire of the Los Angeles officials, who considered the entertainment risqué.

Mayor Norris Poulson said he was shocked with the program, especially with some of Miss Kitt's songs. Other politicians lamented part of Powell's chatter.

Eddie Rio of the American Guild of Variety Artists said, "It'll be a cold day before I ask another entertainer to appear at a civic function for free."

Miss Kitt declared last night, "It now seems to me that Mayor Poulson owes me and every artist on that program an apology."

As for the king and queen, they seemed a trifle amused that such a question ever arose.

Smith-Cotton High School Notes—

Basketball Squad Selects Candidates for Sport's Queen

By Norman Griswold

The announcement was made Monday of the basketball queen candidates. Those nominated by the team are: Joyce Witt, senior; Lucille Kirby, junior; Nancy Oswald, sophomore; Barbara Dougherty, freshman; and Donna Wolfe, eighth grade.

The class selling the greater number of basketball season tickets will have the honor of crowning its queen at Smith-Cotton's first basketball game. The ceremony will take place at half-time.

At Smith-Cotton High School Monday and Tuesday, diabetes tests were given to all students. Mrs. John Murrell, school nurse, and members of the Red Cross supervised the program.

The members of the junior class expressed their appreciation to those who purchased tickets to the movie which they sponsored. The class sold 834 tickets, which was a good showing for all persons involved in the sale. Acknowledgment also goes to Miss Mila Swearingen and Miss Maude Sanders, sponsors of the class.

Members of the Lettermen's Club enjoyed a hayride Friday night with the majority of the membership present. Charles Brady, vice-president, supervised the affair.

The Senior student council held its weekly meeting Monday at 2:15 p.m. Carl Mathewes, council president, presided. Open discussion was held concerning the half-time ceremonies of Friday night's basketball game. It was announced by the president that the council would be in charge of the pep assembly which is to be held Friday.

Individual pictures of all students were received at SCHS Monday. The sale of these pictures will last one week.

At Smith-Cotton High School on Wednesday a scheduled assembly was held for all junior high school students.

The Lettermen's Club held its bi-weekly meeting in the class room of Bob Edmonson, faculty sponsor of the organization. President Darrell Ford presided.

In J. Wiley Atkins' senior American Problems and Mrs. Marion Knight's civics classes, 40 students of the speech department took part in debating the current debate question. Judges for the event were Mrs. Eddie Johnson and Miss Mary Kay English, librarian.

Results of the student ratings will be announced at a later date.

Junior Red Cross boxes were distributed to the various home rooms. Students will contribute individually to this charitable project.

If you have a home freezer, plan to take out the food you'll need for a whole day at one time. Opening a freezer a good many times during a day will increase operating costs.

Skyrocket Reaches New World Speed Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Times' aviation editor, Marvin Miles, says the Douglas Skyrocket plane last Oct. 14 reached a new world speed mark of 1,272 miles an hour.

Scott Crossfield, 32-year-old pilot for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, was at the controls of the swept-wing rocket plane when it exceeded the record of 1,238 miles an hour set Aug. 15, 1951, by Bill Bridgeman, Douglas test pilot, in the same plane, the Times said.

Crossfield began his research speed flight after his plane was dropped from the belly of a Superfortress at about 33,000 feet. He climbed to 62,000 feet. Then he started down, giving the aircraft its final burst of fuel. At that instant it reached its greatest speed. The plane was under power only for about three minutes before being nosed down toward a dead stick landing in 17 minutes at better than 150 m. p. h.

Kidnap-Rapist Gives Self Up In Tampa, Fla.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—New York police were on their way here today to pick up a man wanted for questioning in the kidnap-rape of a 13-year-old girl last Friday.

The man identified himself as Anthony James Palazzola, 26, when he walked into police headquarters here and surrendered late yesterday.

He carried a newspaper with a story of the crime and a picture of himself.

"This is my picture," the stocky, curly-haired man told detectives. "They are looking for me in New York."

Detective Sgt. Neil Brown said he was satisfied from comparison of the picture and from a description telephone by New York police that the man was Palazzola.

He was held in county jail without charge. Brown said he waived extradition and agreed to return to New York.

New York authorities had sent out a 13-state alarm for Palazzola, among his arrest on charges of burglary, robbery and rape in the kidnaping of Dorothea Del Longo.

Police there said a man broke into the apartment of the girl's parents, forced the pajama-clad girl to go with him, raped her in a hotel and turned her loose shivering in the chilly dawn air.

Brown said Palazzola first admitted breaking into the girl's home, taking money and other items from her parents and forcing her to accompany him in an automobile, but that he later withdrew the admission. He denied raping the girl from the first.

He told officers he took a bus to Tampa Saturday from New York after hearing that police wanted him.

Robbers Beat Old Man, Wife, He Routs Them With Rusty Rifle

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—After he and his wife had been beaten in a robbery attempt, an 81-year-old man seized a rusty rifle and routed two intruders last night.

William H. Andresen told police that he and his wife Rebecca, 82, were seated in their living room when the men rang the doorbell. Mrs. Andresen answered it and one man beat her on the head while the other attacked Andresen.

As the two men tried to force open a safe, Andresen went to his bedroom and got his rifle. The intruders saw it and fled.

Navy Is Using The Mightiest Transmitter

JIM CREEK VALLEY, Wash. (AP)—The Navy will flash its first messages today to its ships, planes and stations around the world from what it calls the world's mightiest radio transmitter, high in Washington's Cascade Mountains.

Operation of the 14-million-dollar station MLK, utilizing 1,200,000 watts of power, will be started by Adm. Robert Carney, chief of naval operations, while scores of dignitaries and the nation's news-men look on.

The station, located on a 6,000-acre site 55 miles northeast of Seattle, has been nearly six years on the draft boards and in construction. It will be turned over to the United States by David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America, which built it on contract.

Two parallel 3,000-foot mountain ridges support the 12 towers between which the antenna cables swing—some spanning a distance of 8,700 feet. From the cables trail the wires leading into the transmitter in this valley below.

The rated power, the Navy says, is 22 times greater than the biggest commercial broadcast station in the United States and twice the power of any military transmitters.

A group of young people of the city, known as the Gospel Favorites, will appear on a program tonight at 8 o'clock at the Jones Holy Temple. Mrs. Irene Hopkins is sponsor, Rev. B. Jones is pastor.

US Soldiers In Korea Will Get Turkey

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. 8th Army announced with apparent gusto this week that the soldiers in Korea would be "devouring more than 150 tons of turkey" on Thanksgiving Day.

But the apparent gusto, it seemed, was confined to the quartermaster people.

Slowly the dread news spread—from the rear echelons right up to where troops look out on the demilitarized zone.

You could hear the wall in tent and bunker: "Oh no, not turkey again—anything, even boiled eel or turnip greens."

What was the story behind this uprising against the turkey?

This puzzled reporter went out to investigate.

"Why couldn't it have been steak?" asked a captain. He was an obvious beef eater.

"Chances are 3 to 5 we'd have got turkey whether it was Thanksgiving or not," said a private.

"Back home," moaned another enlisted man, "we ate turkey about three times a year instead of three times a week, and I could enjoy it."

That was it. The Army suffered from a glut of turkey. How come? A lieutenant colonel wasn't sure.

But he told him it was late in the war.

The colonel recalled with fine nausua those last harrowing days—two weeks when the front-line soldiers had turkey every other day.

"It was a ration foulup," he declared, "and it did us a lot more harm than the enemy did."

So the situation is normal—all fowled up. Turkey on the menu twice a week with hot turkey sandwiches and turkey salad in between.

A mess sergeant told me he became so depressed he took to strong drink. He wanted to put up a sign on the mess hall door: Caution: Turkey Today. His major talked him out of it.

It isn't just the repetition that has the U. S. 8th Army down on turkey. The cause lies deeper than that—in the deep freeze where the turkey is kept, the colonel said.

"Maybe the turkey just comes too damned far and for too damned long," the colonel said.

"Somewhere out on the ocean it loses all its flavor and arrives on my plate tasting like a roasted plastic pocket comb—with sage dressing."

Rides Stream of Water Out of Excavation When Main Bursts

DETROIT (AP)—Tolbert Chamberlain, 49, a Water Board workman, rode a stream of water out of a seven-foot deep excavation when the main burst.

"I came out of there like I was shot from a cannon," Chamberlain said as he picked himself off the grass unharmed. The 40-foot stream drenched cars and pedestrians nearby for 10 minutes before the water was shut off.

Jap Whaling Fleet Will Use Helicopter

TOKYO (AP)—The first Japanese whaling fleet to use a helicopter sailed from Yokosuka today for the antarctic.

The fleet, consisting of the 17,000-ton mother ship Nisshin Maru and six catcher boats, will use the "copter for weather observation and to spot whales and icebergs."

Flying Boxcar Carries 15 to Death, Mows Down 10 Others Floating from Parachutes

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—A big C-119 Flying Boxcar hurtled to earth during a mass parachute drop here yesterday, killing 15 men aboard and 10 floating from parachutes in its path.

The plane apparently developed engine trouble during a drop of about 1,000 paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division. The drop, a 32-transport training project, was part of a conference on joint airborne operations.

The pilot, co-pilot and two other Air Force men rode the plane down along with a paratrooper trapped inside when a shovel at-

Add Massingale's Name to 10 Most Wanted List of US

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI today added to its list of "10 Most Wanted Fugitives" the name of Thomas Jackson Massingale, 20, alleged to have organized and led a daring break from Kansas State Industrial Reformatory at Hutchinson last May 14.

The FBI said Massingale and two fellow inmates fought their way out of the reformatory by overpowering a guard with a club and knife obtained from the institution's kitchen, using two other guards as shields while racing across the prison grounds under gunfire, and fleeing in a car with one of the guards as a hostage.

The getaway car and the host-ages were later abandoned at Wichita, and the fugitives the next day eluded officers, again under gunfire, in Guadalupe County, N. M.

Massingale's companions were taken near Tucuman, N. M., a few hours later and got 60-year sentences for kidnapping, but Massingale escaped.

He had previously been convicted of assault at Oklahoma City and was serving a 5 to 10-year robbery sentence.

Massingale, born in Washita County, Okla., is described as slender, 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. He has brown hair and blue eyes and a scar extending downward from the left corner of his left eye.

He was put on the "Most Wanted" list as a replacement for Arnold Hinson, sought for murder and captured at Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 7.

McCarthy Begins Examining GE Plants for Reds

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) convened his permanent investigations subcommittee in Boston today to look into possible subversion in General Electric plants in nearby Lynn and Everett.

At least 18 GE workers have been summoned to testify at a closed hearing. Two of them identified themselves as Nathaniel Mills, 36, and Robert Goodwin, 38.

They said in a joint statement they intend to invoke the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination when questioned before the committee.

"Despite the threats to our jobs and livelihoods," they said, "we shall not cooperate in gutting the Constitution of the United States as McCarthy is doing in his efforts to terrorize his political opponents."

McCarthy said on his arrival here from New York last night that today's hearing may have a link with his investigation of possible spy activities at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

"The entire picture here," he said, "is a by-product of our findings at Ft. Monmouth."

He did not elaborate but said he will call a public hearing in Boston as soon as "it is feasible."

The General Electric Co., one of the nation's key defense firms, said in a statement from Schenecto see that the men jump on signal, said the plane "started to weave and equipment was thrown into the aisle. The men were stumbling over that trying to get out. A couple of the boys fell down and we threw them out."

He estimated that the plane was cleared, except for the crew and the trapped paratrooper, within one minute after the plane "hit something."

Wreckage and bodies were scattered over a wide area. The plane smashed through scrub pines along a 300-yard swath, exploded and burned.

Sluss, a "pusher" whose job is attached to his uniform hung at the jump door. Thirty-seven others jumped safely.

The other victims had jumped from companion planes in the flight and were hit as the crippled plane descended.

One of the crash survivors, Sgt. I. C. Hubert Sluss of Bristol, Va., said two "sticks" of 19 men each were waiting to bail out when "the plane hit something that sounded like two automobiles hitting. . . I hollered for the guys to jump but some of them just seemed to stand there."

Jess Barker, Susan Hayward Conciliation Continued to Jan. 19

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Conciliation proceedings by which Jess Barker hopes to save his marriage to Susan Hayward have been continued until Jan. 19.

But the actress said she did not believe continuance of the marriage would be best for their 8-year-old twin sons, since she no longer loves Barker. The couple spent two hours yesterday discussing their problems with a Children's Court of Conciliation commissioner.

Miss Hayward filed her divorce suit in September, charging mental cruelty. She and Barker were married in 1944 and separated last July.

Calls Reference As Spy Suspect 'Entirely False'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Donald Niven Wheeler, named yesterday by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as once a spy suspect, said the allegation was "entirely false and malicious."

Wheeler, who now lives on a dairy farm in Sequim, Wash., was reported by the Oregonian as saying in a telephone interview:

"This story is the same story brought up five years ago and I made a statement at that time which I will repeat now—the story is entirely false and malicious. I don't understand why stale gossip has been warmed up after five years."

"Possibly the Republicans think the spy scare will take the public mind off the administration's problems such as the present depression in agriculture, the slump in foreign trade, and other current difficulties which point to a nationwide depression."

Wheeler's name was one of 12 mentioned in a letter introduced as testimony in a Senate internal security subcommittee hearing on the Harry Dexter White case.

Hall Sold Insurance Policy to Mrs. Heady

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Carl Austin Hall, now on trial for the kidnap-slitting of Bobby Green, worked for a short time last summer as an insurance salesman.

H. G. Sterling, an insurance company representative, said yesterday Hall made only one sale while on the job. The person who bought the hospitalization coverage from him probably won't claim any benefits.

The sale was made to Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, on trial with Hall.

Hope Letter Aids Rancher At His Trial

BLOOMFIELD, Iowa (AP)—An endeavoring letter writer, Mr. Mayer, 58, wrote to his wife the day before his fatal May 2 meeting with John C. Wisdom, introduced at the New Mexico rancher's murder trial today.

The defense recalled Mrs. Mayer to the stand to identify the letter and to state that the letter was not that of a man contemplating murder.

In the letter Mayer told of fixing a bridge washed out by rain on the Granville Smith ranch near Greencastle, Mo., remarked that his plans for returning home to Santa Fe were "very indefinite" and discussed a trip Mrs. Mayer was planning for her health.

The letter ended with the words, "love to you, Mr. Doctor, Mr. Yellow Hand and Mamma."

Mrs. Mayer explained that "Mr. Doctor" referred to their son Tom, 10, who wants to be a physician, that "Mr. Yellow Hand" was their son Jim, 7, "who likes to play he's an Indian chief," and that "mamma" referred to her mother.

Earlier the state blocked a reply when the defense asked Harold Pirtle, 60, Bloomfield lumber yard worker, if Wisdom had ever bought a gun from him.

Mayer, who yesterday testified he twice had heard Wisdom threaten "to kill" a man with whom he had a hog deal, followed his wife to the stand again today.

He identified correspondence and agreements with Wisdom over livestock he sent to Wisdom's ranch near Bloomfield for wintering. It was over $6,500 Mayer claims Wisdom owed him on this stock that he says their fatal quarrel arose.

Mayer also told, for the first time, of an unsuccessful marriage to a California woman in the 1920s. He said they separated after a year and a half and he obtained a divorce later on grounds of desertion.

Girl Who Had Early Christmas Is Dead
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Carol Jean Linder, a 5-year-old leukemia victim who celebrated Christmas last month because she was given only a short time to live, died at St. Louis Children's Hospital Monday night.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Linder of St. Louis, suffered a temporary loss of memory after a brain hemorrhage about 11 weeks ago.

All she seemed to remember was Christmas, her mother said, so the family held their Christmas celebration early.

N. M. Governor Thinks Water Problem Solved, He Wins Mountains

SANTA FE, N. M., (AP)—Gov. Ed Mechem feels this state's water problems are well on the way to solution now that he has won the Teton Mountains of Wyoming.

"If we can develop a cheap source of power, I'd like to start piping the water down here now," he says.

Mechem and Gov. C. J. Rogers of Wyoming bet on the outcome of last Saturday's football game in which New Mexico defeated Wyoming 9-7. Mechem put up the Sangu de Cristo Mountains of New Mexico against the Tetons.

State's 'Little Hoover' Group Meeting Today

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missouri's "Little Hoover" Commission met here today to get started on its big job—scrutinizing the state's big and still growing governmental operation and finding ways to make it more economical and efficient.

The departmental setup in state government has not been touched since 1946 when Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, then in his first term, assigned the many little agencies to 14 departments as required by the 1945 constitution.

But time has brought about expansion of some agencies and changes in others. Both Donnelly and the legislature thought a recheck would be helpful.

The new commission—four public members, four House members and four senators—met with the governor briefly. He said he had no specific recommendations for them but urged that they make a thorough investigation. Their recommendations will be studied by the 1935 Missouri legislature.

The four public members Donnelly appointed recently: Former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis, former State Sen. Francis Smith of St. Joseph, former State Sen. George A. Rozier of Jefferson City and W. L. Bradshaw, head of the University of Missouri's School of Public Administration at Columbia.

They will work with these legislative members: Sens. Edward V. Long of Clarksville, William M. Quinn of Maywood, William H. Robinson of Mountain Grove and Robert H. Linneman of St. Charles.

Reps. Charles J. Fain of Branson, Max Myers of Webb City, J. W. Campbell of Fayette and Robert H. Ichord of Houston.

New Scout Troop Is Organized, Herrick Leads
A new Boy Scout troop is being formed in Sedalia. A council met Tuesday night at the home of Virgil Herrick, 1525 South Barrett, to organize it. It will be sponsored by the First Christian Church and will be known as Troop 66.

Emerald Holderman was named Scoutmaster, with Joe Wright as his assistant.

Jim Kandise, district Scout executive of the Lake Ozark council, met with the group to advise and instruct it on all phases of Scout work.

Virgil Herrick was elected chairman of the new council. Elected to council office for the new year were: Virgil Herrick, chairman of troop committee; Ray Hendricks, secretary and publicity; Jack Pasley, treasurer; the Rev. David M. Bryan, chaplain; Roy Dawson, outdoorsman; J. W. Wofford, properties; Eugene Herrick, advancement; and Cecil Owens, institutional representative.

One boy has already submitted applications for membership—Mike Dawson, Gary Holderman, Larry Hendricks, Larry Holden, Larry Siron, Gary Siron, Bobby Wright, Richard Wertz and Joe Reed.

The next meeting of the new troop will be Dec. 1. Parents of all troop members are invited to attend and acquaint themselves with Boy Scout work.

Columbia Approves Sewer Bonds In Vote

Fires In The City

A fire raced through several hundred acres of timber land and grass pasture about five miles south of Syracuse for two days before it was finally brought under control Sunday.

It started Friday afternoon on the Kanabaw farm and was believed to have started from a discarded cigarette dropped by a hunter.

Some of the farms damaged included those of the Kanabawles, Hershel Rugen, Jim Hatfield, Buddie Kummerich and Sam Hatfield. The blaze got close to Sam Hatfield's home Saturday afternoon, but volunteer fire fighters kept it from harming the house.

No estimate of damage has been reported yet.

Paul Wenger, Versailles, charged with resisting arrest, forfeited a $10 cash bond when he failed to appear in court. He also forfeited a $2 cash bond for two overtime parking tickets. Wenger was picked up in the 200 block on South Ohio, when he tore up a parking ticket that had been put on his car by Metzman Frank Adams. He was given a second one and taken to police headquarters.

Eight overtime parking violators who failed to appear in court forfeited their cash bonds of $1 each.

Sooner-MU Film Shown At Lions Club

The Sedalia Lions Club Wednesday noon saw a motion picture of the Missouri-Oklahoma game, as which Missouri lost 7-14. The picture was shown through the courtesy of the Phillips Petroleum Corp., and was the program of Robert "Bob" Moore, program chairman for November. It was presented at the club's meeting at Bothwell Hotel.

An unexpected and pleasant surprise in the form of entertainment was had when the quartet, composed of Dean Biederup, Al Domingue, Charles Maggard and Ad Taylor, sang a number for the club. This quartet appeared at the Fashion Lions of '33 and are all club members.

Plans are being made to raise funds to take the quartet to the International Lions Convention at New York this coming summer and enter it in the convention quartet contest.

Guests today were: Miss Peggy Hewitt Homan, guest of Joe Rudick; Harold Hamburg with Dr. David Robinson; Charles Kyger of Warrensburg with C. J. Chapman; Louis "Buck" Igo, Marshall, with James E. McNeil.

James E. McNeil was appointed as the Lions Club representative to Sedalia's Little League. Emery Ellsworth was named coach and manager of the major league team of the Lions and Kenneth Buchholz was appointed coach and manager of the minor league team. The appointments were made by President D. Kelly Scruton.

U. S. Marshal William Taitman disclosed today that Hall bought the suit 10 days ago for $55.75. It is a brown gabardine.

"I don't know what I need with two pairs of pants, I'm not going anywhere," Hall was quoted as commenting to Emmett J. Eggleston, clothing store assistant manager, who outfitted him at the county jail.

The money for the purchase, Taitman said, came from Hall's personal funds—not part of that portion of the ransom money that was recovered from him on his arrest in St. Louis Oct. 6.

Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, Hall's alcoholic confederate, has exhibited a more varied wardrobe. She appeared today in a new outfit—her third in as many days.

It was gray with darker colored pinstriping. She wore black gloves and the same feather-trimmed black hat she wore at the trial's opening Monday. On that day, however, she wore a new black suit. Yesterday she wore brown.

Napton Station Closed by MoPac

For the first time since 1888 the Missouri Pacific railroad does not have a station at Napton. That means for the first time since the railroad was built.

The station there has been closed and Mrs. Earl Conway, who was agent, has been transferred to the railroad station at Ottumwa.

W. E. Shackelford, Napton, remembers as an 8-year-old boy when the railroad was being constructed. He particularly remembers the work in cutting through a hill to the east of town.

Mr. Shackelford says at one time Napton was the heaviest shipping point for livestock on this division of the Missouri Pacific, as many as 300 cars a year being sent from that station. He says he can remember, too, as many as 50 cases of eggs being piled on the station platform awaiting shipment.

Mr. Shackelford, who with his brother, James Shackelford, operated a large store in Napton for many years, said that during the World War I it was not unusual for the Shackelford store to ship in as many as 60 cases of fruits and vegetables at one time.

Mrs. Conway has ten years of seniority with the Missouri Pacific and started her work at Ottumwa Monday, Nov. 19.

Hall Gets Two-Pant Suit for Trial, Then Doubts Need of Extras

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kidnap-killer Carl Austin Hall bought a two-pants suit to wear while a federal court jury decides whether he shall die for the $500,000 abduction slaying of little Bobby Greenlee.

U. S. Marshal William Taitman disclosed today that Hall bought the suit 10 days ago for $55.75. It is a brown gabardine.

Sheep 2,

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Shelly Winters Tries to Prove Her Point and Acting Ability

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD —It's time to check up on the wondrous world of Shelly Winters.
The unpredictable blonde is a throwback to another Hollywood era. There was a time when the temperamental leading lady was considered par for the course. But movie actors on the whole have become more normal and anyone who departs from the norm is treated as a freak.
Shelly thrives on turmoil, and that may be part of the reason I found her doing a TV film for the "Ford Theater." Her studio was against the idea.
"They claim my contract says I can only do live TV," she remarked. "It says I have the right to do TV, and I claim that's either live or on film. I'm not going to budge."
Besides, I want to prove a point. The show I'm doing is a comedy—the light, Jean Arthur sort of thing which is what I want to do in pictures. Maybe if the producers see this, it'll convince 'em."
"So far I can't break the type. All they ever cast me for is tough, dance-hall dames. It was just as though I had never done 'A Place in the Sun,' in which I played a 18-year-old virgin and for which I got an academy nomination."
Shelly is always p in arms about something. Recently she had much-publicized running feud with a casino when she was appearing in Las Vegas. She claims the place provoked her into blowing her top so the publicity could be reaped.

Even so, the fracas appears to have done her no harm. She said that upon her return she had more job offers than she could handle.
I asked her bluntly: Is she difficult?
"Yes, I can be," she replied. "I get along fine until people do things to prevent me from doing my best possible work. Then I blow up."
Difficult or not, Shelly has a voracious appetite for work, which is even more pronounced since her retirement to bear a child. Since then she has made three pictures, played the nitery date and made a TV film. She soon starts a film for her home lot, Universal-International.
On Dec. 23, she flies with baby Vittoria and nurse to Rome, where they will join her talented husband, Vittorio Gassman. She will make a picture with him. At the same time, she plans to make a movie with Vittorio de Sica.

FACTS ON RATS
Rats in the United States alone, destroyed 33,000,000 tons of grain in 1947—or the grain output of 200,000 average farms. Conservative estimates place the rat population of the United States at 160,000,000. Each rat, it is estimated, consumes $4 worth of food per year and destroys as much as $36 worth of property in addition. This amounts to a loss to the American public of well over 5,000,000,000 each year. Moreover, rats are carriers of many diseases harmful to humans and livestock. Among these are Bubonic Plague, typhus fever and various kinds of food poisoning.

Merry-Go-Round GOP Was Planning to Dig Out All Skeletons in Truman Closet

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON—The Republican high command has decided to re-examine its earlier strategy of popping one big expose after another during the coming year in order to embarrass the Truman administration and put the Democrats on the defensive.

This strategy, as reported in this column on Oct. 15, 1953, set up a timetable by which various skeletons were to be yanked out of the Truman closet beginning about January 1. A former assistant attorney general was to be indicted. Several Democrats connected with surplus-ship deals were to be prosecuted. Various alleged links between the Truman-Roosevelt administrations and the Communist party were to be revealed.

This schedule had been carefully worked out and a deal was even arranged with Senator McCarthy by which he was to get the green light for any of his investigations. Orders had already gone out to government departments to cooperate with McCarthy 100 per cent.

Simultaneously, Attorney General Brownell announced that the Justice Department could find nothing in the Senate report on Senator McCarthy's financial transactions which merited prosecution. Brownell also let the statute of limitations expire this month on the Senate report alleging corruption in the Maryland senatorial campaign in which McCarthy likewise figured.

The Harry Dexter White expose was to be the first big gun to be fired in the new GOP offensive. It was moved ahead on the schedule because some GOP leaders got panicky over the New Jersey defeat and figured something must be done quickly and before the California elections to divert attention from Benson, the drought, and recent defeats.

Herbert Brownell, trained in the Dewey crime-busting school, largely masterminded the offensive — an offensive which he worked out in great detail, even including a telephone call to Jimmie Byrnes in South Carolina to prime him to tell newsmen about his last-minute attempt to stop Harry White's confirmation.

Several unexpected developments have now caused the GOP high command to re-evaluate their strategy. Here are some of them:
Development No. 1 was the sour reaction to the subpoenaing of ex-President Truman. President Eisenhower, who joined in this reaction, was genuinely surprised; for it was never intended that Truman would be drawn into the controversy by such blunt and abrupt tactics as the issuance of a subpoena. Mr. Eisenhower, however, was quite familiar with the over-all strategy, most of which was threshed out in detail inside the White House.

Unexpected Development No. 2 was the disclosure that Ike himself had lunched with Harry White at his South England headquarters in August, 1944, at which time the European commander agreed with the general idea of demolishing German industry — an idea which later led to the famed Morgenthau plan of making Germany an agrarian state. The President, had previously denied ever knowing White.

Unexpected Development No. 3 is the fact that Alger Hiss, now in jail and apparently more involved in the Communist spy ring than White, was protected by eminent Republicans, including John Foster Dulles. Mr. Dulles, now Secretary of State, was in exactly the same position in regard to Hiss as Mr. Truman was in regard to Harry White. Dulles, who was chairman of the board of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, condoned and approved the election of Hiss as president of Carnegie Endowment.

Dulles and Hiss
Just as Truman kept White on for approximately one year in the International Monetary Fund after receiving an unfavorable FBI report, so Dulles continued Hiss as president of the Carnegie Endowment even longer, after receiving unfavorable reports on Hiss's alleged connection with a Communist spy ring. Dulles even wrote laudatory letters supporting Hiss and denying that he had any Communist connections. On Dec. 23, 1946, Larry S. Davidow, prominent Detroit Unitarian leader, wrote Dulles as follows:

"It has been brought to my attention that Mr. Alger Hiss either has been chosen, or is being considered, for a position with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The information we have would indicate that Mr. Hiss has a provable Communist record. The information in this regard comes to me from reliable individuals in Washington.

"If you are interested in becoming more familiar with this situation these Washington friends of mine would be glad to arrange to have you meet with one or more persons who know the situation and will disclose it to you in full confidence. What I am writing you is done with the purpose of affording you with an opportunity to become familiar with the facts and thereby avoiding a situation which, if publicized, might prove of substantial embarrassment. I shall be glad to hear from you regarding this.

"Very truly yours, Larry S. Davidow."

On Dec. 26, 1946, Mr. Dulles replied:

"Dear Mr. Davidow:
"I have your letter of December 23rd. Mr. Hiss was elected president of the Carnegie endowment at a meeting of the trustees held earlier this month at the same time I was elected chairman of the board.

"I have heard of the report which you refer to, but I am confident that there is no reason to doubt Mr. Hiss's complete loyalty to our American institutions. I have been thrown in intimate contact with him at San Francisco, London and Washington and I doubt that the people you refer to in Washington know him any better than I do, or have seen him actually at work meeting alien efforts. I have myself in the past, particularly during the campaign in 1944, been the victim of so-called 'documentary proof' that I was various things that I was not. Under the circumstances, I feel a little skeptical about information which seems inconsistent with all that I personally know, and what is the judgment of reliable friends and associates in Washington.

"I greatly appreciate the spirit in which you write.
"Very truly yours, John Foster Dulles."

15-Year-Olds Are Sensitive About Need for Guidance

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
For her 15th birthday, Julie's parents said she could give a party.

Immediately, she raised the question of its deadline. "We're not children any more," Julie said intensely. "If the kids can't stay until 4 a.m., I don't want to give a party at all."

At the end of the week, exhausted by her insistence, Julie's parents agreed that her guests could remain until 4 a.m.

The party was not a success. At 1:30 a.m., the first indignant father telephoned to demand that his daughter come home. By 3:30 the only guests who remained were four or five young revolutionaries. They were, in consequence, preoccupied, dogged guests with their minds not on fun but on tomorrow's battles with their parents.

The following Monday at school, Julie became aware of a certain coldness in her friends' behavior.

For some time afterwards, Julie was extremely irritable toward her parents. She was angry with them for permitting her to impose her inexperienced judgment on theirs. Although her pride would not allow her to say so, she distinctly felt they had not behaved the way you have a right to expect parents to behave.

As I say, Julie at 15 finds it impossible to say this. Preparing herself for the time when she will make independent judgments without her guidance, she is extremely sensitive about her current need for guidance.

She fears if she ever admits her need for guidance, she may exploit it and deny her all opportunities to practice any independent judgment whatever. So for Julie a request for advice on the wisdom of entertaining until dawn is dangerous. She has to pretend that she was absolutely certain her decision was superior in case her parents got ideas and began to question all her decisions.

But she wasn't certain. Thus she was anxious instead of happy in planning and giving a party. With people of Julie's age, we have to take this anxiety into constant account.

As we make it increasingly clear that we are bored with the idea of always making decisions for them, they stop making revolutionary issues of everything we say. A veto of a 4 a.m. party stops appearing like imperialism and is seen on its own merit as the relaxing, perhaps sensible answer after all.

Trusting us not to exploit one surrender to our judgment, Julie listens, not belligerently, but quietly to us when we say, "A party is a thing to give you fun. It is not a thing to use to tell parents where to get off. So to protect it as fun for you and your friends, you'll have to say good night to them at 1:30 a.m."

Acute Bronchitis May Lead To Dangerous Complications

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Although there are several possible causes for a chronic cough with hacking and spitting, bronchitis is one of the most likely. This condition, as the name implies, means an inflammation of the lining of the air passageways leading to the lung tissue proper.

The inflammation may be caused by germs, by dust, by chemicals in the air or from anything else which can be inhaled and which will irritate the delicate lining of the bronchi.

Consequently, bronchitis can and often does follow an ordinary cold, a sinus infection, whooping cough, measles, or any other germ or virus infection.

There are two main varieties. Acute bronchitis usually starts rather suddenly with severe coughing, often some pain in the chest, and fever of around 100 or 101 degrees. As a rule, there is not much mucus brought up at first. Later the mucus may increase and sometimes there is a lot of it.

The treatment of acute bronchitis is much like that of any infectious disease. The patient must be confined to bed in a room which is kept at an even temperature, and with plenty of moisture in the air. Fluids should be taken in large quantities, and the diet must be sufficient and easy to digest.

Sometimes steam inhalations to which certain medicines have been added are helpful, particularly in relieving the cough. The sulfa drugs or one of the anti-biotics may be used at the discretion of the physician in charge.

The prompt and successful treatment of acute bronchitis is important not only for the relief of that condition, but also to try to prevent the chronic form. In chronic bronchitis it is necessary to go to great lengths to find what is keeping the condition going.

Studies Must Be Made
The sinuses must be studied, and it may be necessary to make complete allergy tests to find out if an allergy is partly responsible. Sometimes even these studies fail, and the bronchitis goes on and on with increasing discomfort to the patient.

It should not be allowed to continue, however, if there is any way of preventing it, because a long-continued bronchitis may lead to other complications in which the tiny air pockets in the lungs become permanently enlarged and filled with mucus and pus.

Ike and Protocol

It's reported on good authority that when President Eisenhower gave his informal staff luncheons and breakfasts for members of Congress last winter and spring, he was considerably irked by the seating protocol.

It meant that a bunch of lawmakers who had to sit next to each other in Capitol Hill were forced to sit in the same order when they were supposed to be relaxing.

Manners Make Friends—

When a friend is telling you of some problem she is having with her child it won't make her feel any better to have you say, "I've never had any problem like that with any of my children."

It's no time to boast of your own good fortune when someone is telling you his troubles.

G-G-Ghost Story

The World Today— White Case Is Just First

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration, using the Harry Dexter White case as a starter, can now carry variations of it into the 1954 congressional election year.

Atty. Gen. Brownell laid the foundation—with his charge the Truman administration was lax in getting rid of Communists—for a continuing investigation into similar cases.

The 1945 FBI report which named White as a suspected Russian spy named other government employees too. Many of them, like White, were allowed to keep their jobs for months or years afterwards.

The Senate's subcommittee on internal security, which yesterday heard Brownell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, asked former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, friend of former President Truman, to appear today.

Snyder told the committee he couldn't make it today but would answer later his questions about Harold Glasser, who was mentioned in the 1945 FBI report, held a high Treasury job, and was an adviser to White.

Glasser also was kept in government service after the FBI report and, like White, was promoted. Just as Truman wrote White a letter of regret upon his leaving government service, Snyder wrote Glasser a similar note when he resigned. And former Secretary of State Dean Acheson wrote a note praising his work.

Later, when Glasser was called before this same subcommittee during the Truman administration, he refused 113 times to answer questions, citing the constitutional guarantee against possible self-incrimination.

But Brownell opened up a road for going over the same ground again with a new twist: Why did the Truman administration keep these people in government service after getting FBI reports on them and then let them resign with notes of regret or praise?

Brownell, in effect, had charged Truman promoted White to a job with the International Monetary Fund although knowing he was a spy.

If congressional committees, headed by Republicans, want to pursue this kind of inquiry they can call a number of former Truman officials to explain their actions.

The Eisenhower administration alone knows why at this time it chose White as an example.

Brownell could have chosen any one of a number of other cases. Perhaps he singled out White because he had reached greater eminence in the Truman administration than the others. He was assistant secretary of the Treasury when Truman gave him the job with the fund.

Truman claimed in his Monday night broadcast that he kept White on because there was not enough evidence in the early FBI reports to convict him, and to give the FBI more time to check on him and others.

Hoover, by his testimony before the committee yesterday, indicated such a decision was strictly Truman's. He said it was taken not with FBI urging or approval but actually with FBI disapproval.

Truman already has accused Brownell of raking up the White case for purely political reasons. A continuance of this kind of examination by the Republican-dominated committees might influence next year's congressional elections.

If the Democrats in Congress share Truman's view, and some of them have indicated they do, next year should be a savage year in Washington.

And after Brownell's attack on Truman the Democrats who have been fairly gentle with President Eisenhower may feel free to give him the kind of roughing up he must have hoped would never happen to him.

THE ANGELS FELL

THE STORY: The body of District Attorney Harnet Larkin has been taken from Paul Fleming's car on a lonely road. Paul believes that only he himself, Martha Palmer and Paul's ex-wife Dina know about the body. Martha is Paul's boss who helped in the cover-up. The question is, did Dina, who was married to Larkin, kill her husband and try to throw the blame on her ex-husband?

IX
I WENT into the office, Martha, at her desk, said good morning as if nothing had happened last night.

"Boss," I asked, "did you make that phone call?" The presence of Mrs. Fleming at her typewriter made it necessary to be devious.

"Several times. The party still isn't home," Martha turned to the study of a freight bill on her desk.

There was nothing more to be said even if Mrs. Fleming weren't there. Everything had been said last night.

"I'll go to see Mrs. Rundthal now," I told her.

This time Mrs. Rundthal was in. I looked over the furniture she wanted to store and figured the estimate on my pad. It was 20 minutes to 10 when I left.

Again I slowed down as I approached Oak Hill Road. A car coming toward me paused at the intersection to let me pass before making a left turn. It was a state police car with two troopers in the front seat. When I was by, I saw through the mirror the police car turn into Oak Hill Road.

So they had found him, maybe some time ago, and now I could no longer get to Dina before the police.

Chief of Police Ernie Watrous was speaking to Martha when I returned. Ernie rose, stuck out his hand. "How you been, Paul?"

Like a social visit. We played poker together on occasional Saturday nights and basketball during the winter. He wasn't over 30, but his title was more imposing than the job. He had less men under him as chief than when he had been a Marine sergeant in the Pacific.

"What's new?" I said.

His lean face became sober. "Can I see you in private?"

I glanced at Martha. There was nothing in her face behind its smoke screen to tell me anything. I said, "Come this way, Ernie," and led him into what Martha somewhat superciliously called the lounge. Considering herself a model employer, she had put a round table and several armchairs and a radio in a small room for the use of the men during lunch hour.

ERNE WATROUS leaned the backs of his thighs against the table. He was six-two and lean and quick, a good basketball center. He wore his gun on the outside, like an old-time cowboy or a state trooper. "Know Harnet Larkin?" he asked casually, hooking his thumb into his cartridge belt.

"The district attorney?" I said.

"I've met him a number of times."

"That all? They tell me his wife was once your wife."

"So she was."

"Seems he was shot last night on Oak Hill Road. His body was found this morning in his car. Slug in his head."

"Poor Dina!" I said.

"That's his wife's name?"

"Yes."

"When was the last time you saw Larkin?"

"It must be well over a year. The last couple of times I was in his house to pick up my son Larkin wasn't around or didn't come out to say hello."

"Know anything about this shooting, Paul?"

"No."

He hitched up his cartridge belt. "Okay, I guess that covers it for now."

I said: "This must be a terrible blow to his wife. How's she taking it?"

"I wouldn't know. The Raven-ton police are working the Raven-ton end. Be seeing you."

I remained where I was after Ernie Watrous had left. Through the open door I watched Gibby Sodermann, the mechanic, assembling a truck transmission at his bench. I smoked half a cigarette before Martha came in. She closed the door and said: "Well?"

"All he could think of asking me was when I'd last seen Larkin. What did he say to you?"

"He seems to think it was a gang killing. She squeezed my arm to show that she was pleased."

I said: "I'm taking the afternoon off. It won't look suspicious for me to go to Dina now that I've been told her husband is dead."

A NEAT, slender brown woman admitted me at the Larkin home. A strange man was in the center hall as I entered. The maid glanced at him, then vanished as if fleeing from being involved.

"Yes?" he said.

"I used to be married to Mrs. Larkin. I heard her husband was killed."

"Heard?"

"The West Amber chief of police told me and I rushed right over."

"Why?"

His one-word questions irritated me. The wide-spaced eyes over a button nose searched my face. He was short, but carried himself as erect as a cadet.

"When the husband of somebody you know very well dies, it's proper to go to her."

"You're divorced?"

"But still friendly. I'd like to see her."

"So would I," he said.

"What do you mean?" I asked automatically to keep up the pretense that I didn't know she had been away all night and morning.

"We're looking for her. She left the house early yesterday afternoon and hasn't shown up."

Intelligence Men Are Deep In Steady War

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Allied intelligence men are deep in a constant espionage war which knows no international boundaries and is fought for the most part in secret.

It is a savage conflict. The Russians spew out spies regardless of losses in their efforts to pierce the security of the West.

Only the big cases reach the public. The Russian atom spy ring in Canada started it. Just recently, Rudolf Roessler, master Russian spy, was netted in Switzerland. Norway's security battle flared into the open this week with the arrest of five persons in a Soviet spy roundup.

In the background, a network of intelligence specialists in western Europe quietly pushes the fight. It is a campaign fought on such strange fields as a grimy coffee house in Munich, a sleazy back alley in Frankfurt or a DP camp in Hasse. For West Germany is the core of Soviet espionage activity.

Professional spies, cynical double agents and the betrayed make up the forces of the East. Trained agents, skillful policemen and the counterespionage services fight for the West.

Russia relies heavily on the "shotgun" method of picking spies. It draws heavily from its satellites, using bribes or threats to enlist recruits. Many have only hazy training or none at all. But they have eyes to see and ears to hear and that's what the Russians want.

A spy trial in Munich early in the cold war showed up the Russian hand. Of a dozen arrested, only one was listed as a "class five" or top agent. The rest were anxious to make a little money, or had been coerced into spying. Their bosses had hoped one or more would obtain valuable data.

Their job was to note airfield activity, types of airplanes, strength of military units. They drew sketches of military barracks, made notes on the strength of security guards.

At that time a Western officer commented that 90 per cent of the information seemed worthless. But the remaining ten per cent was prime material to help fill in a mosaic of Soviet information.

Estimated fire losses in the United States were $784,953,000 in 1952, compared with $731,905,000 in 1951.

ROK Threatens to Use Guns on Protectors Of Jap Fishing Boats

PUSAN (AP)—The South Korean chief of naval operations today threatened to unleash Navy guns on any Japanese patrol boats coming to the assistance of fishing boats "trespassing" in Korean waters.

Pak Ok Kyoo, the chief, told a press conference the Korean navy would "take necessary action for self-defense" if endangered by Japanese patrol craft.

Pak's statement followed a brush Sunday between Korean and Japanese patrol boats in the Japan Sea, where South Korea claims its territorial water extends as far as 60 miles from the coast. Two Japanese fishing boats escaped when the patrol craft helped them elude the South Korean patrol boats.

New Machine Can Record Multiple Body Functions

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A new medical machine developed here can record a heart beat at the same time it checks the amount of oxygen in your lungs and body cells.

Simultaneously, as it checks and records nine body functions, it can detect brain complications and tell a doctor whether his patient needs artificial respiration. Its development was a community project here.

First visualized by the staffs of the Southwestern Polio Respiratory Center and Baylor University's College of Medicine, the physiograph was put into practical application by Dr. Leslie Geddes. A team of physiologists, clinical men, physicists and medical technicians combined ideas for Geddes.

Yesterday, at a reception where the device was unveiled, Dr. William S. Spencer, director of the respiratory center, said:

"This is an effort to begin a whole flock of body function studies at one time, moment by moment studies because the disease may change the way a body reacts—moment by moment."

Other researchers said the machine can detect when a patient needs drugs to support a lagging heart. It is expected, they said, to be a key detector in diseases of the heart, lungs, and respiratory system and in brain complications or injuries.

Alabama Capital Gets Soaked When Sprinkler System Cuts Loose

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The sprinkler system in the attic of the State Capitol suddenly cut loose yesterday—almost a week after the fire that burned a small hole there.

Both mishaps were attributed to workmen repairing the roof of the historic structure.

Water from the sprinklers soaked down to a legislative committee room on the third floor yesterday and caused part of the ceiling to collapse in the second-floor office of the Department of Public Examiners.

Duck Hunting At Fountain Grove

Asked Andy Anderson to go duck hunting with me up at Fountain Grove last week. Knowing Andy's first love is quail hunting, I wasn't surprised when he showed up in Chillicothe with Flapper, his old bird dog, in the back seat.

While visiting over a friendly glass of beer, I asked, "Andy, since this is a duck hunting trip, why did you bring Flapper along?"

"Well, Joe," he says, "I was hoping maybe we could compromise and hunt quail part of the time".

Couldn't ask for a more enjoyable hunting trip. Ended up getting our limit of ducks and eleven quail between us.

From where I sit, respecting the other fellow's rights and wishes is a wonderful quality. Though his ideas and tastes may not be like ours, we can understand his preference for a certain breakfast cereal, a favorite movie star, or for a temperate glass of beer. That's the way it should be in a free country.

Blame More Injuries On One Platoon

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—The return of the one-platoon system was blamed by a University of Virginia doctor today for an "alarming" 30 per cent increase in injuries to players on Virginia's football squad.

Dr. Charles J. Frankel, a faculty member at the university's Medical School and examiner for the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery, said there has been a similar upswing in injuries at other colleges he has checked.

Furthermore, he said, the injuries have been more severe than in the days of unlimited substitutions.

"College athletes, with few exceptions, are not as rugged as a generation ago," Dr. Frankel, Virginia team physician, declared. He said injuries this year have been more frequent and more serious not only in actual game competition but in practice sessions as well. The practice injuries are attributable to the efforts of coaches to condition their players to action on both offense and defense, Dr. Frankel said.

All such efforts, he added, are doomed to failure because today's college man, by and large, isn't the iron man his father was.

"Military service examinations have shown that all across the country, this generation of young men is less rugged than the past," he said. "Most boys today don't walk as much as they used to. They usually ride in an auto and consequently their legs and their bodies are weaker."

As team doctor here, Dr. Frankel has kept records of all football injuries at Virginia since 1935. This year the injuries are running 30 per cent ahead of the average for the last 19 years, he said.

While he could produce no statistics, he said his findings were similar in checks on injuries at Virginia Military Institute, Washington and Lee, William and Mary and the University of Illinois.

Knee injuries of the serious kind have soared since the one-platoon system was brought back, Dr. Frankel said, along with other injuries "which occur as the result of fatigue. Many times, toward the end of a football game, players are so fatigued they can't take care of themselves."

Dr. Frankel is considered an authority on athletic injuries and their treatment and has been the author of many papers on the subject for professional journals.

Basketball Prospects—No. 2— Kentucky Ready to Regain Its Place Atop Cage Field

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Kentucky, a name long synonymous with collegiate basketball, appears ready to regain its place among the nation's elites after a one-year exile.

Adolph Rupp, whose 23-year record at Kentucky includes 471 victories and 82 losses, frames the outlook in eight carefully chosen words:

15 Sooners Have the Flu

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Big Seven champion Oklahoma was saddled today with the one opponent that might break its record of no losses in 40 conference starts.

It isn't Nebraska, the Sooners' foe at Lincoln, Neb., Saturday. It's that leveler of all men—viral influenza.

Fifteen of the Sooners' starters, including five starters, came down with flu yesterday.

Among them are Oklahoma's mainstay halfbacks, Larry Griggs and Jack Ginn; first string tackle Roger Nelson and Melvin Brown and end Carl Allison.

Even though coach Bud Wilkinson expressed hope that some of the sick Sooners would be able to play, the illness should reduce the two to three touchdown margin Oklahoma was to have held over Nebraska.

Oklahoma's end positions were almost swept clean by the virus with only fourth-stringer Calvin Woodworth and all-Big Seven Max Boydton in playing shape.

With a 3-0 record and a first day of the conference championship at hand, the Sooners don't have to worry too much about a loss to Nebraska. They are already the Big Seven representative to the Orange Bowl game with the Atlantic Coast Conference champion.

Before he heard the news about the Oklahoma illnesses, Nebraska coach Bill Glassford said he'd let the Sooners worry about the game.

"We're not worrying," Glassford said. "Our boys are up for the game. That's all we can do."

The Cornhuskers had guard Max Kitzelman taking part in scrimmage for the first time in almost three weeks yesterday. Kitzelman had an ankle injury.

In the only other conference game left—between Missouri and Kansas—the coaches were optimistic for different reasons.

Jules Sikes of Kansas said he was counting on the spirit of the Jayhawks. His squad looked good during scrimmage yesterday.

"I think this spirit of the work-out is indicative of the way we'll go against Missouri," he said.

Missouri's Don Faurot, whose team is favored to win and thereby gain a second place tie, said his Tigers were in good physical condition and he planned to keep it that way through light scrimmages.

Back in the Tiger fold after being injured were fullback Bob Bauman, halfback Bob Schoonmaker, tackle Charles Phillips and center Lloyd Brown. All are first stringers.

Iowa State has completed its season and Colorado rests up for a week before a non-conference game with Colorado A&M next week.

"The university will have its usual representative team," Rupp says with a straight face that he isn't sure how the year's layoff—Kentucky was suspended for one year by the NCAA as an aftermath of the bribery scandal—has affected the play of his veterans. The Baron admits, however, that "our freshmen and sophomores seem to have come along faster with the extra practice than they would have if we'd had a regular schedule."

Despite Rupp's caution, the advance dope is that Kentucky is loaded—as usual. The team that won four national tournament titles in the past eight years—will be headed by veterans Cliff Hagans, Frank Ramsey and Lou Tsioropoulos. This trio is capable of brewing considerable misery for its 24 opponents.

Some believe it could become one of the greatest outfits since the 1948 Kentucky team, which shared the Olympic championship. Besides the veteran trio, the squad includes letterman Bill Evans, Gayle Rose and Willie Rouse. Among the sophomores, at least four appear to be outstanding. They are 6-foot-6 Jerry Bird, 6-7 Phil Grawemeyer, and guards Linville Puckett and Jess Curry.

Kentucky will not be the South's only powerhouse. North Carolina State, despite the loss of 14 prospects through ineligibility, figures to be at least as good as last year. The Wolfpack of 1952 won 26 of 32 last year, captured the Southern Conference title but lost the conference tournament to Wake Forest by one point.

Six lettermen are back from that team, including Mel Thompson, who scored 536 points, and Dave Gutkin, an All South guard. In addition, Coach Everett Case has a bevy of fine-looking sophomores who could move en masse into the starting lineup. The best of these is 6-7 Ronnie Shavlik, who averaged 21 points a game as a freshman. Guards Vic Molodet and Whitey Bell also have looked good.

"Western Kentucky," says a communique from Bowling Green, Ky., "should have the best team assembled by Ed Diddle in his 33 years as head coach."

Basis for this boast is that four out of the five starters are back for their senior year. Like all Diddle's teams this will be one that can run, shoot and score, and it will be rich in experience as well. Probable starters will be Tom Marshall and Dan King at forward, 6-9 1/2 Art Spoelstra at center, and Lynn Cole and Dyke Vest at guard.

Louisiana State is expected to give Kentucky a stiff battle for the Southwestern Conference title. Coach Harry Rabenhorst has 6-9 Bobby Pettit and all his other starters back. A good long shot is Tulane, which also gets its back.

In the new Atlantic Coast Conference, Maryland, banking on Gene Shue, and Wake Forest, with high-scoring Dick Hemric, are the best bets to challenge N. C. State.

In the old Southern Conference, it looks like a three-way battle among West Virginia, Furman and George Washington. Furman, the No. 1 offensive team last year, has the brilliant Frank Selvy back.

Washington is loaded with veterans and West Virginia is a fast, tall, good-scoring outfit.

With estimates necessary from some states where racing still is continuing, such as California, Maryland, West Virginia and Rhode Island, a total parimutuel turnover of $2,068,052.889 is indicated for 1953. This compares with $1,928,925.499 last year.

Attendance last year was 27,086,748 and this year the estimate is 28,229,182.

Reverts to the states and municipalities: will total a record $136,069,370, the survey indicated. A year ago their income was $119,061,276.

by WILSON SCRUGGS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion, dismissed last week as manager of the Baltimore Orioles, said today he has received no baseball offers and has not contacted anyone about a job in baseball.

Marion added the vacant management of the Brooklyn Dodgers would be a "ready-made job" but that he doubted he would be considered.

UCLA-USC Defenses May Mean Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The spotlight will be on the offensive stars when UCLA and Southern California meet in their important Pacific Coast Conference football game Saturday, but once again the defensive work may well decide the outcome.

Both squads scheduled hard contact work today, the last of the pregame preparations, and the rivals can merely hope that the workouts will produce a crop of casualties.

"We have work to do, and if anyone is going to get hurt, we'd just as soon know about it at this stage of the week as later on," said Red Sanders, whose Uclans can reach the Rose Bowl if all goes well.

All going well includes a victory over USC and a victory by California over Stanford in the latter engagement up north.

"We should be at full strength for UCLA—if nothing happens," added Coach Jess Hill of the Trojans.

UCLA remains a short priced favorite to win this nationally televised game. At least the Bruins won't be confronted with the identical Trojan squad which shaded them 14-12 last year.

The Bruins should be glad, because it was one huge defensive guard, Elmer Willhoite, who intercepted a pass by Paul Cameron and lumbered 72 yards to the UCLA eight before Cameron hauled him down.

Willhoite is gone, and so are the two players who combined on a pass play four plays later to win the game. They were Jim Sears and Al Carmichael.

The Sears-Carmichael pass made it 13-12 for USC, and the conversion was added by Sam Tsagalakis. He's the same Little Sam, the place kicker, who beat out Stanford two weeks ago with his last minute field goal.

Those 1952 Trojans were a powerful team on defense. It is hardly surprising that they aren't as strong this year, as the records bear out. Hill lost Willhoite, Bob van Doren, Bob Hooks and Bill Hattig, Charlie Ane, Bob Peviani and others.

Horse Racing
Sets New Mark
With Betting

NEW YORK (AP)—Thoroughbred horse racing, which broke all records for attendance and parimutuel wagering last year, has again shattered all marks with betting passing two billion dollars for the first time in this country.

Incomplete and unofficial figures from the nation's 25 states where parimutuel betting is legal show that wagering at the running tracks is up 7.21 per cent over 1952, with attendance showing a 4.50 per cent gain, and revenue to the states hitting a high 14.29 per cent above last year's record.

A year ago, racing people said the big upswing could be credited to Uncle Sam's crackdown on bookmakers, plus increased public confidence in the sport through policing by the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau. The upswing has been noted every year since 1950.

With estimates necessary from some states where racing still is continuing, such as California, Maryland, West Virginia and Rhode Island, a total parimutuel turnover of $2,068,052.889 is indicated for 1953. This compares with $1,928,925.499 last year.

Attendance last year was 27,086,748 and this year the estimate is 28,229,182.

Reverts to the states and municipalities: will total a record $136,069,370, the survey indicated. A year ago their income was $119,061,276.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion, dismissed last week as manager of the Baltimore Orioles, said today he has received no baseball offers and has not contacted anyone about a job in baseball.

Marion added the vacant management of the Brooklyn Dodgers would be a "ready-made job" but that he doubted he would be considered.

A Year of Mau Mau Leaves Kenya Shaky

By Dudley Hawkins
NEA Special Correspondent

NAIROBI, Kenya — After a year of Mau Mau, Kenya is used to terror. The nightly killings and the tight restrictions on life have an air of normality. And the average citizen — white and black — doesn't know where or when it will all end.

In the year since the state of emergency was declared, 5,000 Africans and 50 Europeans have been killed; once flourishing farms are derelict; sandbags have replaced the comfortable verandas; barbed wire has taken the place of windows.

In that year six battalions of crack British infantry have been flown to Kenya. One has returned to Europe, but a corps of engineers is expected shortly. Yet the terrorists continue to grow in number, and the Mau Mau army is now estimated at 27,000, living furtively in forests and mountains which are beyond the reach of RAF bombs.

The Mau Mau army formed gradually, getting its recruits from the criminal element, from the jobless and homeless Nairobi Africans, from the blacks who fell under the influence of Communists, from all sorts of tribal troublemakers. There are actually two armies, in the west and north, led by Mau Mau with colorful names of General Russia and General China.

At first, the authorities underestimated the foe. Then there were petty jealousies and squabbles which slowed matters. All this gave the Mau Mau time and confidence, and today, when there is an integrated army under a regular general, Sir George Erskine, the Mau Mau is firmly entrenched. Erskine's men are killing Mau Mau at the rate of 40 a week, but at that pace, it would take about 15 years to destroy the Mau Mau army. And Kenya can't afford a 15-year struggle. So Erskine is preparing for a showdown battle, one which he seems certain to win.

Even after an official victory, however, Kenya's troubles from the Mau Mau would be far from over. Their terrorism is certain to go on, long after their army is crushed. Even now, their political terror—and the counter measures taken by British authorities—make life grim in Kenya.

An office boy, reporting for work, says with a big grin: "No smoking for Africans, bwana. The Mau Mau will kill anyone they see smoking a cigarette."

That is part of the Mau Mau's efforts to get the Africans to shun everything European. For the same reason, Africans are afraid to ride the city's buses, and the buses therefore are running empty or standing idle in the depots.

The Kikuyu Tribe, which forms the backbone of Mau Mau, pays the penalty for the terror. The British have issued new legislation which forces the Kikuyu into a pretty narrow routine of living. It is illegal for more than one Kikuyu to travel by car. It is illegal for a Kikuyu to ride a bicycle without his name painted clearly on the cross-bar. It is illegal for a Kikuyu to grow patches of maize or public land within the city, lest terrorists hide therein. It is illegal for a Kikuyu to go out without a wallet full of passes.

Behind all the terror lies one big factor—the Kikuyu, and other Kenya tribes, are underprivileged. The reserves, set aside for their farming, are not especially fertile, and the Africans' farming methods are slipshod to begin with. In Nairobi alone, some 10,000 are to all extents and purposes homeless. The whole Mau Mau mess might vanish overnight if some mineral wealth were found in Kenya. That would give the Africans a new source of income, and Africans with earning power are usually not interested in terrorism. The Kenya railroads maintain locations for their workers, who are generally contented with their jobs and homes. Less than a score of the thousands of railroad workers have joined the Mau Mau.

The African, as many British in Kenya have come to realize, must feel that he is a partner in the enterprise of the Colony. He must be given something that he will not want to lose. Without such assurances, Mau Mau in one form or another will continue.

SEARCHING OUT THE MAU MAU: Military police in Kenya stand guard over a group of natives while others search their huts in the yearlong drive to hunt down Mau Mau terrorists.

cycle without his name painted clearly on the cross-bar. It is illegal for a Kikuyu to grow patches of maize or public land within the city, lest terrorists hide therein. It is illegal for a Kikuyu to go out without a wallet full of passes.

Teacher Tough on 1853 Frosh

YELLOW SPRINGS, O.—(NEA)—Could you pass an examination on Miss Peabody's Polish-American System of Chronology? If not, you couldn't be admitted to the freshman class at Antioch College—100 years ago.

In getting ready for the college's centennial celebration, school officials turned up a copy of the first catalog, dated 1853. It listed the entrance requirements, and most of them would stop a 1953 frosh cold.

There were some old stand-bys like English grammar and arithmetic. But the history requirement was that system of Miss Peabody's, and nobody around seems to remember what it was all about. The emphasis was on Latin and Greek, with an aspiring collegian having to pass exams on many classics in the two languages, as well as Latin and Greek composition.

ANTIOCH'S 1853 CATALOGUE: It would stop 1953 frosh cold.

Mother of Bobby Faces Kidnap-Killers, Tells Of Lies They Told Her

In Unflinching Voice She Relates In Court How She Was Told Boy Was Alive After He Was Already Dead and Had Been Buried

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The government expects to wrap up its death demand today for the kidnap-killers of 6-yr.-old Bobby Greenlease, whose mother confronted them in federal court with the lie they told to get $600,000 in ransom.

In an unflinching voice, she testified late yesterday that Carl Austin Hall, the 34-year-old wastrel, repeatedly assured her that her only son was alive even though he had been slain soon after his kidnapping.

Her multimillionaire husband, Robert C. Greenlease, sat only a few feet from Hall. The 71-year-old automobile dealer watched her closely as she talked. He had been there all day, listening to the government press its case for the death penalty for Hall and his alcoholic lover, divorcee Bonnie Brown Heady. Both have pleaded guilty.

At times his jaw tightened. His teeth clenched. And occasionally he would study Hall, who served in World War II as a Marine only to come back to a life of crime. Beside him sat Robert Lederman of Tulsa, Okla., his business associate, who had acted as an intermediary.

Mrs. Greenlease's voice was firm as she told of her first talk over the telephone with the kidnaper last Oct. 4, six days after her boy's abduction.

A federal jury, charged solely with determining whether Hall and Mrs. Heady should die, listened attentively as she related the first telephone conversation.

"I said, 'This is Mrs. Greenlease. We are willing and ready to pay the money, but first I must know that my son is alive and well.' He said, 'I can assure you your son is alive and well.'"

"He said, 'The request Mr. Lederman made to have you speak to your son, we could not carry out. We were afraid to take him to a telephone.' I said, 'Well, would you ask him two questions for me?' and he said, 'Yes.'"

"I asked him to ask Bobby the name of the driver of our automobile in Europe this summer and I asked him to ask Bobby what he built in his play room the night, the last night that he was home."

"I said, 'I am asking you to ask

Bobby these questions because there are other people claiming to have Bobby. If you can give me these answers, we will know you are the people who have him and that he is alive.'"

Mrs. Greenlease said the kidnaper promised to call her back within an hour and did phone her about 1:30 the same morning and told her:

"I phoned them but Bobby wouldn't talk. He just dummed up."

Mrs. Greenlease said that on her second conversation with the kidnaper he told her he could assure her Bobby was alive because he saw him that afternoon and "he says his parrot whistles."

"Lady, he is driving us nuts," she quoted the kidnaper as saying. "We have earned this money."

Mrs. Greenlease told the jury she had two other telephone conversations with the kidnaper and each time Hall assured her the boy was alive and well.

It was the first time Mrs. Greenlease had seen Hall and the 41-year-old Mrs. Heady, who talked a nun at the Catholic school into turning Bobby over to her on the pretense she was his aunt and Mrs. Greenlease was ill.

Earlier Hall's confession, read in all its gruesome detail by an FBI agent, disclosed that the kidnaper was confident he had $592,000 of ransom money in his possession when arrested in St. Louis.

Half of the money is still mysteriously missing.

At St. Louis top police officials immediately expressed surprise over the Hall confession, particularly that part saying Hall's suitcases containing ransom money were not taken to the police station at the time of the kidnaper's arrest.

1. A. Long, president of the St. Louis Police Board, said he police board would resume its inquiry into the missing money.

Louis Shoulters, a veteran of 27 years on the St. Louis police force who made the arrest, declined comment on Hall's statement.

But Patrolman Elmer Dolan, the policeman with Shoulters at the time of the arrest, took the witness stand. He testified he helped Shoulters put the suitcases into a police car in which they took Hall to a police station.
